Techno and CJ
were playing together when they found the room in a big mess.

“What is this mess?”
Techno asked.

They went to search for who made the mess. On their search, they came across a pile of pencils and drawings. “What is this mess?” CJ asked.

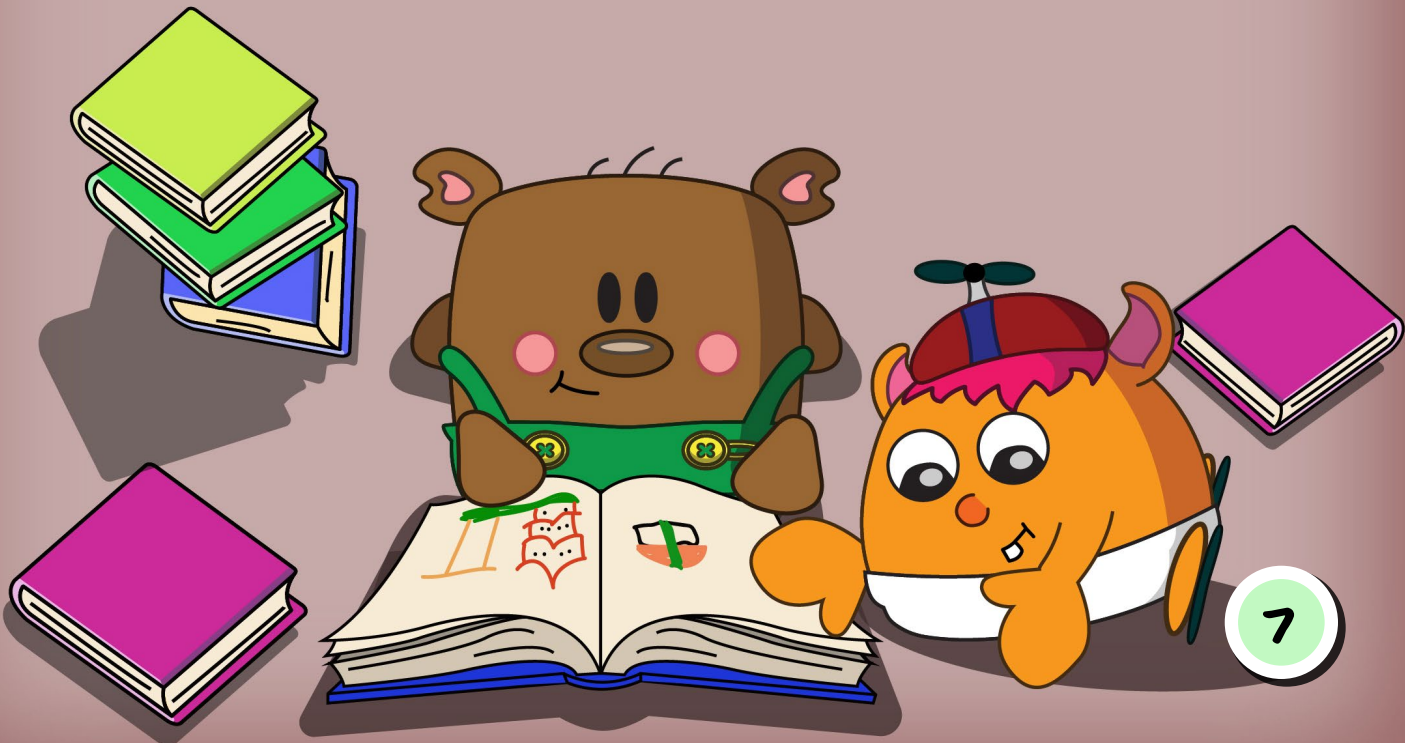

In the kitchen
they found food all over the floor.
“What is this mess?” They both asked confused.

“Everywhere is messy,” CJ sighed.
“We need to find out who is not tidying up after themselves.”

At last, they found Teddy and DJ reading a picture book. There were books lying everywhere.

“DJ! Teddy! What is this mess?”
Techno and CJ both asked.

The two turned around to look at the mess they had made.
“Why didn’t you tidy up after you played with the toys, ate your food or read the books?”
CJ asked.

“We are sorry,” DJ said.
“Yeah. We were so focused on what we wanted to do next, we did not notice the mess we left behind,”
Teddy replied.

Since they share
the space with the other babies, DJ and Teddy knew they had to make it right.

So, they packed up the pencils. They put away the blocks. They picked up all the books and they cleaned up the food.

Once they had finished, the babies read a book together in the tidy room.

“Next time we make a mess, it is our responsibility to clean up after ourselves,” DJ Said.
